January 2015

FOCUS: The Power of BEGINNINGS

Ah-hhhh! A NEW year!! It lies in front of us like an empty, expansive, sandy beach or a blanket of beautiful, untouched snow.

What will this New Year be for you?

Is this the year you will: start a business, get married, change careers or jobs, move to the place of your dreams, clear up the home you are living in, meet the person you were meant to meet, write that book, complete that painting, start a family, buy or sell that business?

Whatever you are dreaming, my hope for you is that you get down on paper the specific steps to make those dreams actually come true. Take some think time by yourself to dream a little, but don't stop there. If you could only make one of those dreams happen for you, which one would it be?

What actions could you take this year that you have not done before to make that dream a reality? We all know the definition of insanity – doing the same thing over and over, but expecting a different outcome.

If you happen to live in the San Diego area and would like help to get 2015 kick-started into high gear, I would love to see you at my VISION 2015 Seminar on Monday, January 19 from 9:30 a.m. - 3 p.m. at Coco's Encinitas. Registration is $147 at this link.

Because you are a member of my RED Hot eTips for energized and efficient people, you will receive a $20 refund at the door on the day of the event. We'll take the time for you to get clear, get focused and get going on YOUR BEST YEAR YET!

Hope to see you on Monday, January 19 – Register beforehand at this link so I can plan on your attendance.

IT'S ONLY TOO LATE IF YOU DON'T START NOW!!

FUN, FAMILY & FRIENDS: A Wonderful New Beginning

I had such a fantastic holiday season, and I hope you did, too. This holiday time was really different for me this year in that an elementary school chum (waaaay back to 1st grade) finally came to California to see me after many, many years of invitation.

If you would like me to provide one of my presentations for your group, association or company,

After 10 years as a widower he remarried in July, and he and his new bride planned the trip as a second honeymoon, and boy, was I happy to see him and get to know her. Along with my husband, the four of us toured all over Southern California, as far north as the Rose Parade in Pasadena all the way to Coronado Island and everything in between. Seeing our beautiful state through the eyes of newcomers made me realize I DID make the right decision many, many years ago to leave Illinois for California. These two Chicagoans relished in our weather, our beach sunsets and the variety of places we visited.

More importantly, he and I renewed our friendship on a much deeper level, and my husband got to understand why I have spoken so fondly about this fine-hearted fellow over the years. No need for me to “interview” his new wife to check her out. She and he are perfect together, and she really gets his sense of humor, which has remained just as strong as it was long ago.

We laughed and giggled just like our days in high school. It was so silly and so much fun.

Who can you reach out to that you know fills your bucket full of high times and happiness?

You won't regret it – you'll regret not reaching out.

Thanks a million, Eddie.

FAVORITE QUOTES OF THE MONTH:

“You raze the old to raise the new.” – Justina Chen

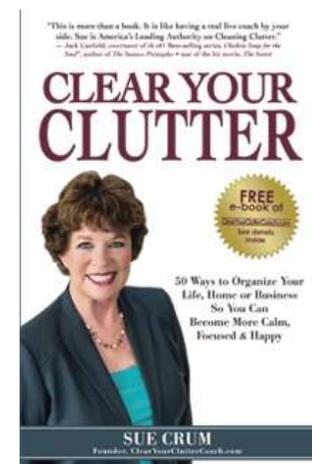

“Set fire to the broken pieces; start anew.” – Lauren DeStafano

“In a spirit of hope and new beginnings, we linked arms like a couple of kids. Pushing aside sad thoughts, we strode off into our future.” – A.B. Shepherd
